Talbott Tar Heels T-Formation

FOOTBALL 1966

University of North Carolina

—CHAPEL HILL—

THE SEASON

In this 78th fall of football at Carolina, picturesque Kenan Stadium celebrates her 40th anniversary of hosting teams and the University rings the bell for a 172nd year. Obviously the academic, cultural and athletic traditions at Chapel Hill are rich in history. The Tar Heels invite their spirited backers to share in the 1966 season, one which alludes to enthusiasm and optimism. Quarterback Danny Talbott, a bona fide triple threater, is the logical candidate to provide the momentum. His teammates are eager and able. Thus the stage is set for an autumn of gridiron thrills.

THE DANNY TALBOTT STORY

Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice, regarded as the most electrifying player in the history of football at the University of North Carolina, watched last year's Georgia-UNC game and jokingly commented: "If things keep up, they're going to be calling me the old Danny Talbott instead of referring to Danny as the new Charlie Justice."

Talbott, a six-foot, 180-pound junior quarterback, had performed gallantly as his Tar Heels bowed to the Bulldogs, 47-35. Press box calculations tapped him for a new total offense record of 318 yards. Justice, now a member of Football's Hall of Fame, set the old school mark of 304 against Georgia in 1948.

"Talbott is the finest athlete we've faced this season," complimented a relieved Coach Vince Dooley in the aftermath. Later that fall, the sports writers of the Atlantic Coast Conference agreed. They chose the blond, soft-spoken Talbott as "Player of the Year."

Honors are nothing new to the slippery young quarterback. When he was a senior in high school, Talbott led his school to State Championships in football, baseball and basketball. He pitched one game with a splint covering a broken finger—and won. He entered Carolina with the tag "best home grown athlete since Justice played for Asheville before World War II."

Talbott, who missed spring football drills to play first base for the Tar Heels, was a three-sport athlete as a freshman, starting in all sports. As a sophomore he made All-Atlantic Coast Conference in baseball, but an injury in the LSU game of that season curtailed his football activities.

The 1964 season was expected to be a good one for UNC. Talbott, showing flash in his first start, led the Tar Heels past Michigan State and Wake Forest. Down at Baton Rouge, La., he was met by a crushing tackle from the blind side while passing. He was out of action almost a month.

In the fall of 1965 a healthy Talbott lived up to expectations. The Tar Heels, with an entirely green line and complete inexperience at three or four backfield posts, wound up with a 4-6 record but were in the thick of nine games until the final quarter. Talbott's presence made it so.

All-America candidate Danny Talbott was cover boy for the Official Collegiate Football Record Book this year. Danny's talents, and others like him, led North Carolina in its successful quest of the Carmichael Cup.

FOR PRESS, RADIO-TV, PHOTOGRAPHERS, THE EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION AND THE MANY THOUSAND NORTH CAROLINIANS WHO SUPPORT THE TAR HEELS

Carolina has high hopes of blending an improved offensive line, a host of new faces and the same old Danny Talbott into an exciting football team this fall.

And even Coach Jim Hickey, a man who never goes out on a limb, admits it all could turn out to be a whole lot of fun.

"I don't know how many games we'll win," Hickey says, "but I do know this team will be ready to play good football every Saturday."

Any evaluation of the Tar Heel potential has to start with Talbott, one of those rare athletes who does everything well.

But Danny will have plenty of help. There are 28 lettermen on the squad and an exceptional group of sophomores up from George Barclay's unbeaten freshman team.

All of this optimism, however, can't dim the fact that there are problems. Every football team has question marks, and Carolina has its share.

The centers are mostly inexperienced, the linebackers are exceptionally small for the position, and the fullbacks never have tried to run down big-league varsity defenders.

But Hickey and his highly-capable staff feel that the problems can be overcome.

"I'm especially pleased that the competition will be keen at all positions," Hickey says. "For example, for the first time in my eight years as head coach, I feel we really have some depth at the all-important position of tackle. I couldn't even tell you now who might be the starters there."

The Tar Heels are fortunate to have a veteran of all-star potential heading the tackle corps. He's Hank Sadler, a Charlotte senior, who came to play and has been doing it well for two seasons. He'll be the defensive key.

Then there are Tom Ingle and Chuck Alexander, two battle-tested veterans, and three highly-promising sophomores, Mike Richey (253), Terry Rowe (254) and Tom Renedo (236).

To make it all better, all five have better than average speed and mobility for men of their size. Alexander is versatile, could play a guard or even center.

It is hoped that these tackles will give the offensive line far more punch than it had last season.

"As I see it," said Hickey, "we should be able to control the ball more. Last year, we were capable of making the big play and often did. But we had problems with the average play—the four yarder when it was a must to keep the ball.

"This fall, we should be able to make the big play and also the control play. Our running attack will be best inside. I think we can grind when necessary. And of course, when the ball is ours, our defense gets an extra rest. You'll see an improved defense as a result of this."

Top runners in the camp are David Riggs, a shifty fellow from Morganton, and Tom Lampman, former Virginia dash champion. Both are lettermen and were first stringers last season.

Two sophomores who hail from Canada will play prominent roles. One is Mark Mazza, a 216-pounder from Dundas, who apparently nailed down the starting fullback job with a fine spring. The other is Dick Wesolowski, 215-pounder from Hamilton, who was so explosive as a freshman that his name became a household word in North Carolina.

Coaches feel that Mazza will develop fast into a key performer. But they aren't overlooking the fact that he is inexperienced.

Those small linebackers mentioned earlier are Bill Spain, who weighs just 190, and Brent Milgrom, 194. Both are tough, however, and eager to get the job done.

The inexperienced man at center will be Chip Bradley, a sophomore who has a bright future. He's a 212-pounder from Asheville.

The receiving corps commands attention. Charlie Carr, sidelined for three games last season with a broken hand, could be a national eye-catcher. Peter Davis, a soph, is a good one. Bob Hume, top receiver last year with 30, returns for his final year and will be used at end instead of flanker back.

The schedule, as usual, is tough. In addition to five Atlantic Coast Conference tests, there are intersection matches with Kentucky, Michigan, Notre Dame, Georgia and Air Force.

Hickey, however, feels that any team on the schedule can be beaten. So do the Tar Heel men who play the game.

KENAN STADIUM: A Southern Showplace

This is the 40th anniversary for Kenan Memorial Stadium. If life begins at forty football fans are in for a real blast. Those first 39 years were packed with nothing but action.

The first game ever played in Kenan Stadium was on Nov. 12, 1927, and Davidson College was soundly trounced, 27-0. The dedication took place on Thanksgiving Day with the University of Virginia the foe. It was a very special occasion for the entire State.

John Sprunt Hill of Durham made the presentation in behalf of the donor, William Rand Kenan Jr., and Governor A. W. McLean accepted on behalf of the State and the University. Once the ceremonies were over, the Tar Heels nosed out their old rivals, 14-13. An indication of the interest is revealed in figures. The previous week Carolina played Duke before 7,000 fans. The Virginia-UNC bout drew 28,000.

Kenan Stadium is not just an arena for football. It is a Chapel Hill landmark and one of the most beautiful sites for sports in America. The stadium is spacious and comfortable. An adjoining building, Kenan Fieldhouse, offers quarters for visiting teams, dressing facilities and a meeting place for ardent Carolina fans.

Two seasons past two new wings were added to the Fieldhouse. One side serves for coaching offices, the other provides an attractive meeting room for special guests. Downstairs areas are used for athletic needs.

* * * *

The man who made Kenan Stadium a part of Carolina life died last year. He was William Rand Kenan Jr., a remarkable individual who can be ranked among the great business tycoons of this country. He was 93.

Kenan Stadium was originally constructed in 1927 as a memorial to Mr. Kenan's parents, William R. Kenan and Mary Hargrave. The seating capacity at that time was 24,000 and the cost of the structure was $375,000. Mr. Kenan also directed building of the Kenan Fieldhouse in the east end of the arena at a cost of $28,000.

Enhancing the stadium was a pet project of Mr.

Kenan through the years. It was his gift sometime later that enabled portable seats to be installed in the end zones and to provide an upper deck above the permanent stands. Total capacity reached approximately 44,000. Cost of the upper deck in 1963 was in excess of $1,000,000. Two wings were added to the Fieldhouse a year later at a cost of $100,000.

Mr. Kenan was born in North Carolina in 1873. He was a graduate of the University, class of 1894. In 1944, his alma mater awarded him the honorary degree of LL.D.

Mr. Kenan's love for the University and particularly for his interest in football date to his boyhood. He was an outstanding player in his student days at Chapel Hill and won letters as a halfback.

Mr. Kenan's gifts to the University have been many. He and his family set up the Kenan Professorship fund, which supplements salaries of distinguished professors.

When Kenan Stadium was originally built, it was considered something of an outpost from the campus. Today, with the building program at Chapel Hill mushrooming, the handsome edifice is coming closer and closer to the heart of the campus.

UNC's Chancellor: Excellence In All Departments Is Firm Approach of J. Carlyle Sitterson

Athletic teams at the University of North Carolina are fortunate in having J. Carlyle Sitterson as one of their most enthusiastic fans. The busy and often frantic schedule of being Chancellor of one of America's great universities does not interfere with his attendance at major sports activities on campus.

"I guess I have seen Carolina teams play as many important events as anyone on campus," said Dr. Sitterson. "I am intensely interested. I've been a part of the Chapel Hill scene for some time and I can recall many fine teams and many outstanding individuals."

If the game were hockey, Professor Sitterson could claim the hat trick many times over. He has "worn more hats" on campus than any faculty member in the history of the University.

This, much like the anniversary of Kenan Stadium, is the 40th year at UNC for the Chancellor. In 1927 he enrolled here as a student. He became the most important man on campus on May 9, 1966, when he was named to head the University.

"My approach to athletics is basic and understandable," said Sitterson. "I look at our athletic department in the same manner I might look at our English or our history departments. I expect a certain amount of excellence. Athletics on the college level should be administered properly and above reproach. Our coaches are highly capable men. Our teams should perform accordingly."

Professor Sitterson was elected by his colleagues to be chairman of the American Conference of Academic Deans, and served in that top post in 1964-65. It is one of the highest national academic offices that can be held by a scholar and administrator in higher education in the United States. The American Conference of Academic Deans is composed of liberal arts and arts and sciences administrators in the rank of dean, with representation from more than 500 of the leading colleges and universities in the United States having membership in the Association of American Colleges.

He was chosen in 1958 to be one of 35 deans from throughout the nation to attend the Harvard University Institute for College and University Administrators, participating in a week-long series of discussions on faculty recruitment, faculty promotion, curriculum planning, budget policy and the decision-making function of the academic dean.

He is listed in: Who's Who in America; Who's Who in the South; Who Knows What; and the Directory of American Scholars.

Versatility and Distinctions

He was simultaneously Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Dean of the General College. The College of Arts and Sciences which include the major liberal arts and sciences and social sciences departments in the University—with a major part of the undergraduate enrollment—is composed of juniors and seniors in the University. The General College, which includes freshmen and sophomores, also relates to the major departments in the University. He served in both these capacities until 1965 when he was made Vice Chancellor of the University, with authority over all the central campus, and also the schools in the Health Affairs area which includes Medical School, Dentistry, Nursing, Pharmacy and Public Health.

J. Carlyle Sitterson

Carlyle Sitterson was a member of Phi Beta Kappa when he was a student in the University from 1927-1931.

He is an enthusiastic and inspiring teacher. In 1954, the campus literary magazine The Carolina Quarterly identified him as one of the "Ten Outstanding Professors" as adjudged by students in the University.

He was selected to be a Kenan Professor in 1961.

He received the Ph.D. degree at Chapel Hill in 1937, the M.A. in 1932. He has been a member of the faculty since 1935.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

AMERICA'S OLDEST STATE UNIVERSITY

The University of North Carolina has a proud heritage. It is a distinguished academic institution nesting in a unique community, once called by Time Magazine "one of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States."

★★ The University's enrollment is approximately 13,000—and within 10 years it is expected to soar to almost 20,000.

★★ It is the oldest state university in the United States, first admitting students in 1795, when George Washington was President.

★★ Time Magazine recently appraised Carolina as "the South's best university."

★★ It was closed only once—a five-year span from 1870-75 after the Civil War.

★★ There are 14 schools and colleges, including more than 70 departments and numerous other divisions.

★★ The Morehead Planetarium on campus helps train the astronauts.

★★ Thanks to 172 years of planning, the campus is considered one of the most beautiful anywhere.

★★ Its alumni are many. Thomas Wolfe, the great novelist, schooled here. Chapel Hill is recognized as a literary haven.

★★ An integral part of the University is the Division of Health Affairs, a six-fold medical-dentistry-public health complex which includes the North Carolina Memorial Hospital.

★★ Jimmy Beatty, a trackman of the 1950's, was the first American to break the four-minute mile barrier.

★★ In athletics, Carolina won its first National Championship in basketball in 1924 with a 23-0 record. In 1957, the Tar Heels again rated the top spot with a 32-0 mark.

★★ There are more than 1,000 faculty members, many of the professors of international stature. But perhaps the most famed "professor" is Kay Kyser, a Chapel Hill resident, the original "Old Professor of Musical Knowledge."

★★ The main part of the campus is composed of more than 700 acres Much additional acreage is available for predicted expansion.

★★ A distinction is the fact that more scholars from other colleges and universities in the South chose the University at Chapel Hill as their first choice to attend—when awards are made by the Southern Fellowship Fund.

★★ During World War II, the University provided a base and many instructors for the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight School.

★★ The University has its own on-campus radio and television stations.

★★ James Knox Polk, a graduate in the class of 1818, became the 11th President of the United States.

★★ Thirty of North Carolina's 49 Governors have been graduates of the University at Chapel Hill.

★★ More than 90,000 students have walked Chapel Hill's traditional paths since the school's founding.

★★ Several articles have recently appeared in national magazines of high regard referring to the University of North Carolina as "one of America's great academic institutions."

★★ The August issue of Holiday magazine devoted eight pages to Chapel Hill and the University, noting the beauty of the area and pointing out that the town and the institution often are referred to as one and the same.

★★ A UNC professor, O. B. Hardison, was chosen by Time as one of America's ten best college teachers.

CHUCK ERICKSON

His office is a spacious one in Carmichael Auditorium and although it is tucked away at a far corner of the building it has become a center of traffic. C. P. (Chuck) Erickson, as athletic director of the University of North Carolina, is a busy individual.

The University's 12-sport program isn't something that was shaped up overnight. It required hard work and not a little planning. Erickson, now in his 14th year at the job, is regarded as one of the nation's most able athletic administrators.

In a handsome case just down the hall is the Carmichael Cup, a silver trophy indicative of an excellent overall athletic program. Carolina has been privileged to display it for two of the past three school years. The Tar Heel program of sports is solid. Credit is due CPE.

Charles Perry Erickson first became known to Tar Heel fans more than 25 years ago when he was a halfback playing in the Chuck Collins Era. He had come south from Oak Park, Ill., where just down the block lived Ernest Hemingway, the author. The Chicago area was alive with good football, and as a prepster Chuck had excelled in that sport and in track.

Like so many undergraduates, Erickson was impressed by the school and also by the town of Chapel Hill. He ventured away to enter business after graduation, but he made up his mind he was coming back.

And he did two years later. Since then, he has done a bit of everything: football and golf coach; assistant graduate manager of athletics; funds raiser; scout; recruiter. In 1951 he succeeded the popular Coach Bob Fetzer as athletic director.

Erickson, who received his Bachelor of Science degree in Engineering here in 1931, oversees one of the finest athletics plants in college ranks. He takes great personal pride in the new addition to Kenan Stadium, which cost more than $1 million. His office is in the newest athletic building, Carmichael Auditorium, which seats 8,500 for basketball and isn't quite one year old.

A new baseball field has been shaped from the valley below Navy Field and plans are underway to fit it with suitable seating. In the heart of the campus is a complex of tennis courts, a thriving sport at UNC. There are two Olympic sized pools, one indoors and one out. Woollen Gym, former home of basketball, is set aside for intramurals, indoor track and physical education.

A row of grassed fields borders Carmichael and is utilized for physical education and intramurals. Two of the fields are lighted, as are some tennis areas. Navy Field is called upon for lacrosse, football practice and as an instructional area for archery, golf, etc.

JIM HICKEY

As the 1966 season begins Jim Hickey joins the company of Chuck Collins and Carl Snavely as coaches with the longest consecutive tenure at the University of North Carolina. This marks Hickey's eighth season in the command post.

Snavely actually is the senior member of the firm. He held rank from 1945 through 1952, an eight-year mission which produced three Bowl teams, but earlier had guided the Tar Heels (1934-35) before galloping off to Cornell. Collins was Snavely's predecessor, the years being recorded as 1926 through 1933.

Hickey is the greybeard of the group from the angle of Chapel Hill service. He joined the late Jim Tatum's staff in 1956 and was appointed to carry on Jim's work when an unaccountable virus struck down the national figure in July of 1959. Thus Hickey embarks on his 11th year of local duty.

"I've never been more eager," admits the 46-year-old Jim, who has a hunch that this could be his strongest production. "We had a fine spring workout and we have big men and experienced men. With a little luck this could be a mighty fine team."

Planning for the coming wars has been active. There have been switches and replacements in the coaching staff. There are new assignments for coaches and for players. The password is optimism and hard work. The Tar Heels have been thinking football, 1966, since the curtain rang down on 1965's disappointing season. However, Hickey insists on clarifying the meaning of "disappointing."

"We were disappointed that we didn't provide a better overall record," admits Jim, "but I was certainly not disappointed in our kids. They played, in many instances, better than they knew how. Few prognosticators saw us winning many games. Yet, we were in the thick of nine of ten games, outcomes that went down to the wire."

Hickey enters his 19th season of coaching come September—this, of course, including his high school activity. During the past seven years at Carolina, the Hickey product has won 34 games against 37 defeats. There have been no ties. Carolina has bucked the nation's finest opposition during this span . . . and will continue to do so this season.

If a single game could highlight Hickey's career it would have to be a toss-up between last fall's stunning, 14-3, upset of Ohio State and the 35-0 Gator Bowl triumph in 1963 over Air Force. In both instances his Tar Heels handled themselves with an air of precision and force.

It was typical that Hickey accepted both wins with his usual nonchalance. He is a man who hides his emotions under his buttondown shirt. He isn't a good loser, but he can lose with grace. He wins without strutting. On the field he calls his plays like a Las Vegas dealer, seldom changing expression. Off the field, he is easy to meet and he won't duck questions, regardless of their sting.

GOAL LINE ANALYSIS

OFFENSIVELY		DEFENSIVELY
Should be one of the squad's strong points. Bo Wood can go both ways. Bob Hume, who caught 30 last season, can play halfback or a tight end, where his blocking is effective. Charlie Carr has the hands of an All-America. Peter Davis is a bright soph catcher. George Zadjeika has experience here.	THE ENDS	Lyn Duncan was an expected starter last year until an injury cut him. He's ready and able. Bo Wood can be called from offense if necessary. Stylish newcomers to the terminal are Billy Warren, Neil Rogers and Tom Buskey. No overflow of experience, but good men.
Thanks to the return of Tom Ingle, a big 'un with experience, the picture is brighter than last season. Some shifting is being done. Chuck Alexander can play any inside position and may be used. Terry Rowe and Mike Richey are sizable newcomers who can block.	THE TACKLES	This should be a banner year for Hank Sadler, one of the most consistent defensive men to wear Carolina colors. Tom Renedo, who like Sadler weighs in at better than 230, was a springtime find. Lloyd Fisher is short but strong. Some planned shifts in early fall will help. Positions appears reliable.
Pat Shea, Mike Horvat and the aforementioned Alexander are combat veterans, perhaps not with the speed of last year's best but nonetheless capable. Ev Cowan might make the grade. Outside help from Pat Jessup and Bob Connolly. Coaches will devote attention here.	THE GUARDS	Middle man in a five-man line is a most important slot. Joe Fratangelo won All-ACC honors last year and could repeat if he licks some academic problems. Jimmy Masino, a gutty performer, looks good after a shift from end. Vet Ron Kaplan and Lou Pukal are on standby. With or without Fratangelo, position demands respect.
Greg Battistello enters his third season rated as a good college center. He does not have the size to be a great one. Chip Bradley, a soph, moved into the No. 1 role during spring drills. Bradley is a fine prospect. Behind them the grass is green and they will be expected to carry the load.	THE CENTERS	This is the linebacking department and more speed and quickness are expected. Bill Spain, a vet, and Brent Milgrom were the best of the spring crop. Milgrom is an ex-end. Butch Clayton, injury prone, is counted upon. Several bright new faces—Dave Ringwalt, Tom McCain, Battle Wall—are worth noting.
The current backfield doesn't have the strength of the Willard-Kessler machine of several years back but it could be just as dangerous. Tom Lampman and Dave Riggs are slick and experienced. There's Danny Talbott's leadership at QB. Newcomers Mark Mazza and Dick Wesolowski are destined for future stardom. Rates with any backfield in South.	THE BACKS	Experience should make the defensive secondary much better than last year. Also the speed is better than average. Count upon Billy Darnall, Gene Link, Jack Davenport and John Esher to produce. Jim Fortune and Gayle Bomar are the slickest of the non-lettermen. Bud Phillips, a fine receiver, may play here in double duty.

ERNIE WILLIAMSON

Ernie Williamson has always felt that a donation to the Educational Foundation was not specifically a donation to athletics. He contends the high type of young man who is awarded a scholarship not only pays dividends to the Athletic Department, but also is a great asset to his University.

Williamson, who serves as executive secretary of the Educational Foundation, reports that interest in the scholarship program is at an all-time high. He feels that those who participate in the function agree that the overall bonus is in helping a worthy young man obtain a college education. Athletics, while important, come second.

"This job is a rewarding one," explains Williamson. "I watch the boy arrive here and grow into manhood. At the same time I am closely allied with those who provide the monetary means to make this possible. The boy benefits no more than those who help him. It is a two-way street."

Williamson, the one-time Tar Heel tackle, willingly accepts any donation to the Educational Foundation. He realizes the small doner of today is the Big Ram of tomorrow. Membership in the Rams Club, which is confined to those who contribute $100 or more, is at an all-time high.

Last year a special room was constructed on the south wing of Kenan Field House to serve as a meeting place for Rams and their families. The area is open two hours before game time and provides a lounge, picnic facilities, and restrooms for those who come early. In the off-season other functions are held here in relation to the Foundation program.

Foundation members receive priority on seat location for football and basketball games. They are welcome guests to all athletic programs.

"A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," explains Williamson. "However, many of our finest members did not necessarily attend the University. They heard about our program and felt it was most worthy. We are delighted to welcome them into the fold."

Williamson points out a membership of any type directly helps earnest young men achieve an education. All donations to the Foundation are tax deductible.

ORIGIN AND INCORPORATION

Three loyal and athletic-minded University of North Carolina alumni met in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure at Raleigh in December of 1938 and organized The Educational Foundation, Inc.

They were John W. Umstead, Jr., of Chapel Hill, Max Abernethy of Raleigh and Benton Stacy of Reidsville.

A charter was drawn, with these three men as the incorporators, and submitted to the late O. Max Gardner, who had his law firm clear it with the Internal Revenue Department as a charitable organization.

The charter was issued on December 7, 1938.

PURPOSE

The purpose of The Educational Foundation, Inc., is to raise funds for providing scholarships or grants-in-aid at the University to worthy and qualified high school students with athletic ability.

There are similar organizations at all institutions where athletics are considered important and beneficial, and where other means of providing such assistance are not available.

The Educational Foundation, Inc., operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessing and good will of the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status comparable to that of the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation, and other money raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

ADMINISTRATION AND OPERATION

The full amount of all donations of Foundation members is used for scholarships and grants. The organization has no administrative expense.

Born in Crewe, Va., on Sept. 9, 1922, Ernie Williamson, a giant of a man, is a North Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. He played one season of football here under Carl Snavely in 1946 and was a tremendous tackle. He was lured away to play professional football and had tenures with Washington and Los Angeles before his career was cut short by a knee injury.

Ernie returned to Chapel Hill to complete his education and went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., where he was an assistant football coach two years and head coach three years. He also coached wrestling and track.

Married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va., Ernie is the father of a son and daughter.

THE RAMS, INC.

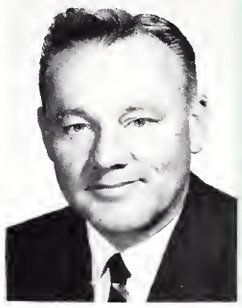
Educational Foundation members who contribute as much as $100 qualify for membership in THE RAMS, INC.

Rams receive number one priority on seat locations, permanently assigned.

In addition, they are issued season parking permits in selected parking areas.

Rams who donate $500 or more, in addition to the other benefits, are given by the Educational Foundation, gratis, four season tickets to all home games in football.

PROFILING THE UNC GRID STAFF



BOB THALMAN

Head Defensive Coach

This is Bob Thalman's seventh season as a staffman. His vital position is to command the overall defense. Diligence and enthusiasm are Thalman trademarks.

Bob is also the inventive member of the staff. He has devised a teaching board known as a "Grid Graf," which is an invaluable aid to diagram plays and defenses. Carolina has used it for several years and shortly Thalman plans to put the item on the market for nation-wide consumption.

A graduate of the University of Richmond, Bob wore Marine gear for three years during World War II. At Richmond he was a star guard and fullback, later played some professional ball.

The 43-year-old Thalman has 19 years of coaching experience on all levels. He was a prep tutor at Richmond and Norfolk. He served four years as athletic director and coach at Hampden-Sydney. He coached professionally in Canada at Hamilton.

Thalman is married to the former Mary Elizabeth Schnupp of Wheeling, W. Va., his home town. They have four children, two boys, two girls.

JOE MARK

Head Offensive Coach

A new assignment this season finds personable Joe Mark directing the offensive thunder for the Tar Heels. He will set the machinery in motion as to method of attack and any switches in tactics. He feels the players under his direction this year are capable of consistent movement on the ground and in the air.

Mark was a blocking back and guard at William & Mary, thus learning first hand that interference is the key to steady gains. Joe captained the Indians in 1950.

Mark, 37, has an impressive coaching background. After service, where he played football at Fort Eustis, Va., he returned to his alma mater as a graduate student and assistant coach. He won his M.A. degree, then coached high school ball at Vero Beach, Fla. In 1956, he returned to Williamsburg and was with William & Mary three seasons. He coached golf there and today is a low handicap player.

The dapper Mark, who selects Carolina's battle dress, is married to the former Faith Ann DeBolt of Hampton, Va., his own home. They have a son and a daughter.

EMMETT CHEEK

Defense — Scouting

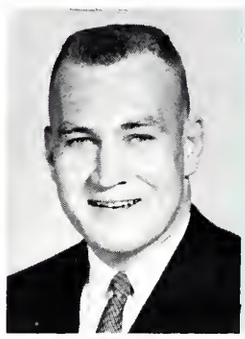
If Emmett Cheek were not a football coach, he'd perhaps be a scientist. Cheek is thorough and meticulous and among his many duties is checking upon the academic progress of the many athletes.

Cheek also is the secret agent of the Tar Heels. As chief scout, he usually spends his weekends on assignment away from home, diagraming enemy plays and defenses. He outlines his findings and presents them to the staff and squad the next week. Some years ago Cheek and Eddie Teague, athletic director at The Citadel, co-authored a definitive book on scouting.

A native of Chapel Hill, Emmett was a superior lineman under Carl Snavely and he played on some of the great teams here. His eduation was interrupted by a service stint. A two-sport man, Cheek caught for the UNC baseball team.

Born on Dec. 9, 1918, Cheek was line coach and baseball coach at Guilford College in 1949 and 1950. Jim Tatum tapped him for duty at Maryland in 1951 and he was a close friend and associate of Tatum's until the latter's death in 1959.

Emmett, who is a model of physical fitness, is married to the former Mary Sue Moore of Greenville, S. C. They have one son.



FRED MUELLER

Head Frosh Coach

Fred Mueller is the newest member of the football staff. He takes over the freshman squad as head coach after serving for two years at Montclair State Teachers College in New Jersey.

A former varsity guard and assistant coach here, Mueller steps into big shoes. George Barclay has handled the yearlings in past years and can display three consecutive Big Four crowns. Mueller seems up to the task.

Fred began his coaching career in 1961 at Miami's Edison High. In 1963 he returned to Chapel Hill for graduate work and assisted Barclay for two seasons. Other than his freshman duties, Mueller will scout and recruit for the Tar Heels.

Quiet and unassuming, Mueller fits the Carolina picture nicely. He is married to the former Jo Ann Rusinak. They have two daughters.

Mueller will draw his freshman coaching staff from former gridders taking graduate work here.

GEORGE BARCLAY

Offensive Assistant

George Barclay, who for the past two years turned out unbeaten freshman teams, has moved up to join the varsity. He will devote his time and energy to the offensive line.

Barclay, who never misses a campus sporting event of note, was an All-America here in 1934, Carolina's first. He was a guard of wide tactical range and he still moves about with the same spirit that made him Carl Snavely's pride.

Barclay's coaching background is impressive. A native of Natrona, Pa., he has been head coach at Washington & Lee and Carolina, taking the latter job when Snavely departed in 1953. He served as an assistant at the following schools: Oberlin, Dartmouth, VMI, Maryland and Tulane.

Barclay gave up coaching in 1956 to enter private business, but then coach Jim Tatum lured him back into the fold. George still maintains his business interests, but he's all football.

A widower, Barclay has two married but youthful daughters. He is considered by his friends America's peppiest grandfather.

CHRIS CARPENTER

Defensive Assistant

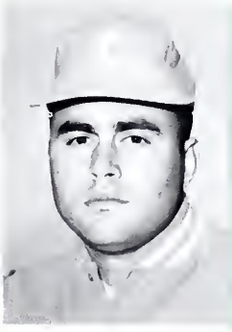
One of the most successful high school coaches in the history of North Carolina's prep circles, Chris Carpenter gave up his throne at Rocky Mount to join the Tar Heel staff last year. He quickly proved his football knowledge is extensive.

A graduate of UNC in 1952, Carpenter was a standout lineman who knew early he wanted to be a coach. In 1956 he returned to Chapel Hill to earn his Master's degree. During that stay he assisted with the freshman squad.

Carpenter, a taskmaster on the field, is a friendly, easy-going sort off and is quite popular with the players. While at Rocky Mount he turned out spectacular teams and skilled players, Quarterback Danny Talbott being one of them. The Blackbirds of Rocky Mount won four Eastern Conference crowns and two State titles during Carpenter's reign. His teams there won 51 games against 13 losses and three ties.

Chris will work with the defensive linemen during the coming season. He will also be available for scouting.

Carpenter is married to the former Martha Godfrey Black of Sanford. They have three children.



GEORGE BOUTSELIS

Defensive Assistant

This is George Boutselis' third season as a member of the Carolina coaching staff. The bright young man is a home-grown product. He moved into an assistant's job after completing his varsity career in 1963.

Boutselis is a determined worker and he is a devoted student of football. Only 26, he looks forward to the day he can become a head coach. Hard work should open an opportunity for the ex-Tar Heel quarterback.

A native of Harrisburg, Pa., Boutselis will direct the defensive backfield this season and he rates the talent there of a high caliber. Both experience and depth are present.

During his three years here, George has done a bit of everything. He has scouted and he has coached the "redshirt" squad. He is also a productive recruiter.

Coach Hickey terms Boutselis a real comer in coaching ranks. George majored in Industrial Relations during his undergrad days. He is a bachelor.

ACE PARKER

Offensive Assistant

Newest of the varsity staffmen, Clarence (Ace) Parker joined the Carolina staff last spring after serving 19 years at his alma mater, Duke. He brings with him a fine personality and an abundance of football know-how.

An All-America in 1936, Parker went on to stardom in professional football and baseball, playing with the old Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League and with Connie Mack's Philadelphia A's.

Parker, who recently made the Football Hall of Fame, served four years with the Navy and was discharged as a lieutenant following World War II. He joined Wallace Wade's staff at Duke after his pro career ended. From 1948-52 he managed the pro Durham Bulls. He was Duke's baseball coach.

Ace will direct the maneuvers of the offensive backfield for the Tar Heels, a job he does with skill. An all-around athlete, Parker is one of the state's top amateur golfers. Ace is no stranger to Kenan Stadium. Who can forget that November afternoon in 1936 when the fleet halfback returned a UNC kickoff 105 yards for a touchdown? He is married to the former Thelma Bernice Sikes.

WHO'S FOR STARDOM?

Danny Talbott really is just one of the Carolina Tar Heels who will rate all-star consideration this fall. Some of the others are ends Charlie Carr, Bob Hume and Bo Wood, tackle Hank Sadler and that dynamic, little runner at halfback, Dave Riggs.

As the season unfolds, some sophomores and players of limited background will press into the all-star picture, too, but the six mentioned here appear to be the best bets at this stage.

Carr, one of the most widely-heralded athletes ever to come out of Virginia, proved in his sophomore year last season what an exceptional performer he is. He might have rated all-star nods then had not a broken hand put him on the sidelines at mid-season.

Charlie caught 14 passes and scored two touchdowns. He'll be Talbott's chief target at wide end.

For two seasons, Hank Sadler has been a steady —sometimes sensational—player at tackle. He plays for keeps and could just turn out to be as tough a defensive man as you'll find in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

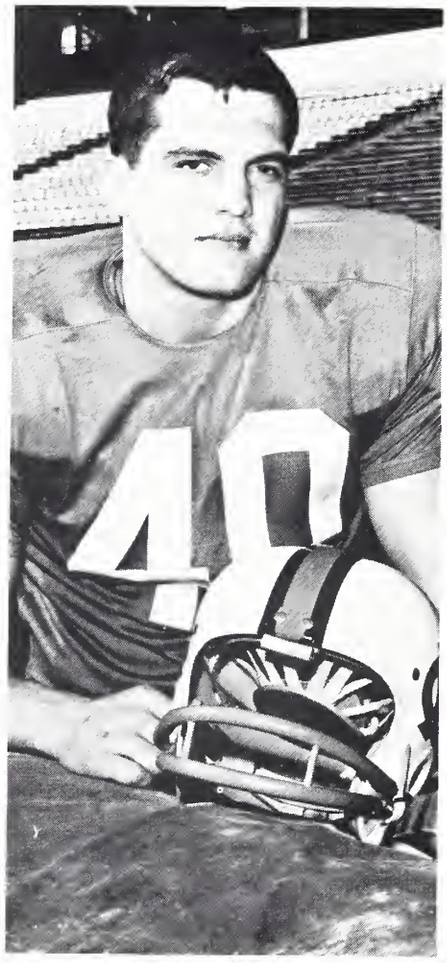
Riggs was just another substitute at halfback when the 1965 season began. But they couldn't keep Dave out of there.

He beat out the veteran Max Chapman at mid-season and went on to rack up 276 yards on 79 carries, an average of 3.5 a rush. Coaches say he is vastly improved now, and that's bad news for Tar Heel opponents.

Wood has been a hot and cold performer for two seasons and now appears ready to hit the all-star status long ago predicted for him. Strictly a defensive end in the past, he's slated to play some at tight end on offense this time. Middle Guard Jimmy Masino is of Joe Fratangelo caliber.

As mentioned earlier, some other veterans may push these men for all-star berths. The coaches hope so. That kind of competition would insure a successful season.

Mark Mazza



Dick Wesolowski

Lyn Duncan

NEW FACES

A couple of Canadian Comets, Mark Mazza and Dick Wesolowski, head a banner group of new men who'll step into prominent roles for the Tar Heels this fall.

Mazza, 216-pound bruiser from Dundas, was so impressive in spring work that he now appears headed for a starting job at fullback. He runs, he blocks, he fakes and he does it all well.

It was the sensational Wesolowski, a 215-pounder from Hamilton, who worked special magic for the unbeaten freshmen last fall. Dick totaled 582 yards on 110 carries, an average of 5.3 yards every time he handled the pigskin.

This is the second straight year that Lyn Duncan, the defensive end, has been listed among the new faces. Duncan was billed for stardom last fall, but was sidelined with a knee injury before the wars even started. He's ready now, and rugged.

There will be three sophomore tackles of extraordinary ability. They are Mike Richey, 253, from Charlotte; Terry Rowe, 254, from York, Pa.; and Tom Renedo, 236, from Coral Gables, Fla.

Richey and Rowe drew more raves as freshmen, but it was Renedo who won the award as the outstanding lineman in the Blue-White game last spring.

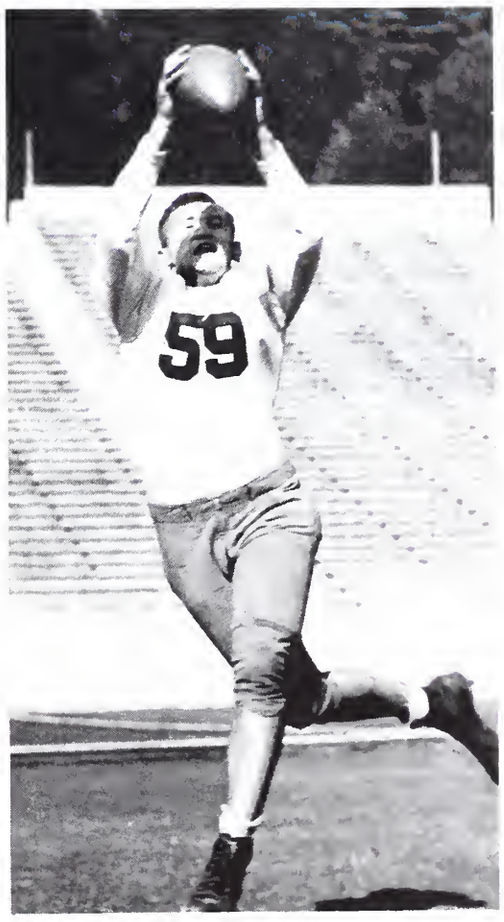
Watch out for Chip Bradley, 212-pound sophomore from Asheville. He's tabbed to start at center. Coaches say he's a blue chipper.

And Peter Davis, who caught 12 passes for the frosh, stacks up as a solid backup for Charlie Carr at wide end. He's from Clarksville, Va.

A host of other fine men move up from the freshman team, which many observers felt was one of the best yearling squads in Carolina history.

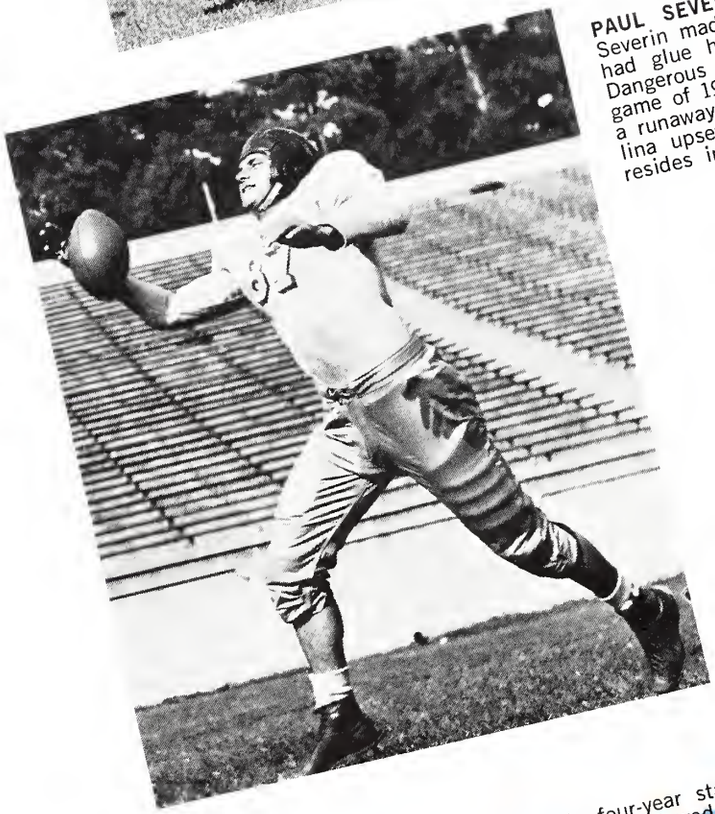
. . . Lest we forget our gridiron greats

GEORGE BARCLAY: He was the first All-America—1934. He wasn't big as linemen go, but he had the kind of desire that stirs men to take beachheads. Barclay also had a football mind and the speed and savvy to reach the ball carrier before the foe could do damage. After Carolina, he played professional football and then turned to college coaching. He's a proud member of the 1966 Tar Heel staff—and when his emotions are worked up he appears able to fit once again into that old guard slot.



ANDY BERSHAK: Handy Andy, perhaps the most likable athlete ever to play for Carolina. He won his award in 1937, when all the big ones picked him (Grantland Rice, Collier's). Bershak was an undersized end who didn't believe the scales. Football was a two-way game and he drove himself to perfection. Tough, hard as a railroad spike. He played basketball, too. Andy loved Chapel Hill and he stayed to breathe the good air for his hours were limited. He died of Bright's disease as a young man.

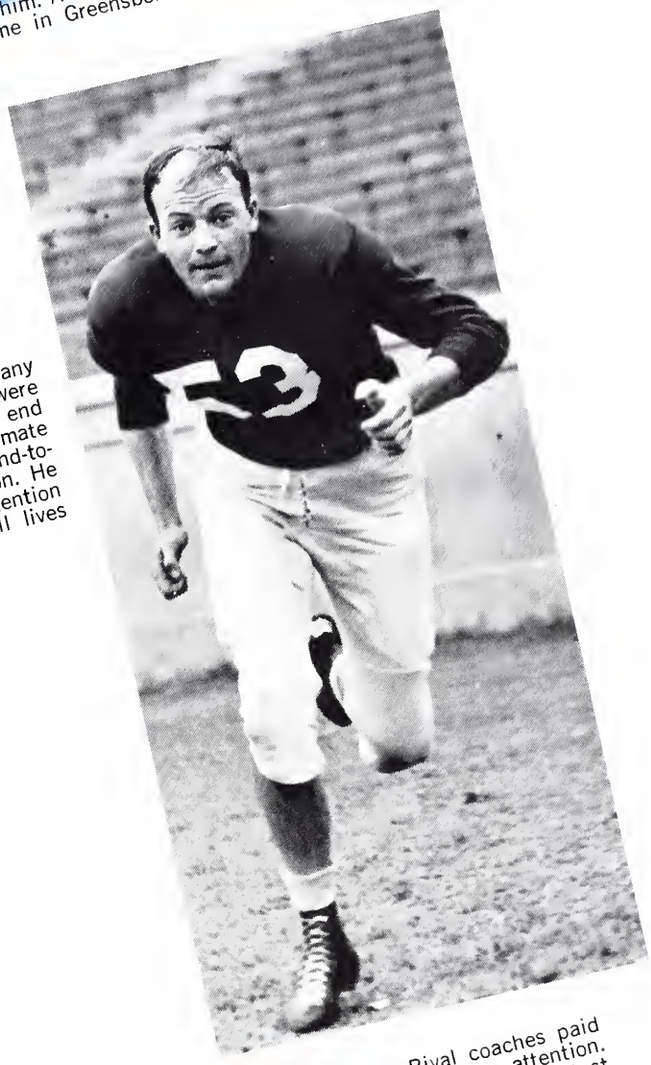
STEVE MARONIC: Something of an iron man, this Maronic. Played almost 60 minutes of every football game as a tackle. Co-captained the Tar Heels along with George Watson. Steve also was a scorer. Placements were his specialty and he kicked 13 consecutive ones during the 1938 season. Maronic had superior days against NYU and Fordham and caught the eye of New York writers. Carolina allowed its foes only 39 points that season, one of the reasons being Maronic's fine defensive play. Steve now resides in Durham.



PAUL SEVERIN: Carolina's first two-time All-America in any sport. Severin made the Associated Press' check sheet in 1939 and 1940. He had glue hands and a spectacular passing partner in Jim Lalanne. Dangerous offensively, Severin was at his best on defense. In the Duke game of 1940, he was blocked on his back, yet scrambled up to catch a runaway halfback 40 yards downfield and prevent a touchdown. Carolina upset the visitor's, 6-3, and the Severin legend grew. Paul now resides in Richmond, Va.

CHARLIE JUSTICE: They call his four-year stay The Justice Era. The Choo Choo did all the magic allowed on a field and led his Tar Heels to three Bowl trips in four years, 1946-49. He gained more than 5,000 yards as a tailback, averaged 42.6 yards per kick over a four-year period. He scored 39 touchdowns and averaged 16.2 for every punt he returned. All-America two years running, plus countless other awards. First home-grown All-America here. Football Hall of Fame. Choo Choo is a Greensboro citizen. His pro affiliate was Washington.

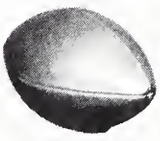
ART WEINER: In the record book it reads: Most Passes Caught—57 by Art Weiner, 1949. What it doesn't tell is the manner in which this loose, lanky flankman pulled 'em in. Weiner was one of those rare individuals who made one hand serve for two, if the angle so required. He scooped footballs off his shoestrings, leaped for them in ballet fashion. During his four years he caught 18 touchdown passes and a total catch of 114 for 1,797 yards. He was a pro dandy until an injury decked him. A former member of the Athletic Council, Weiner makes his home in Greensboro.



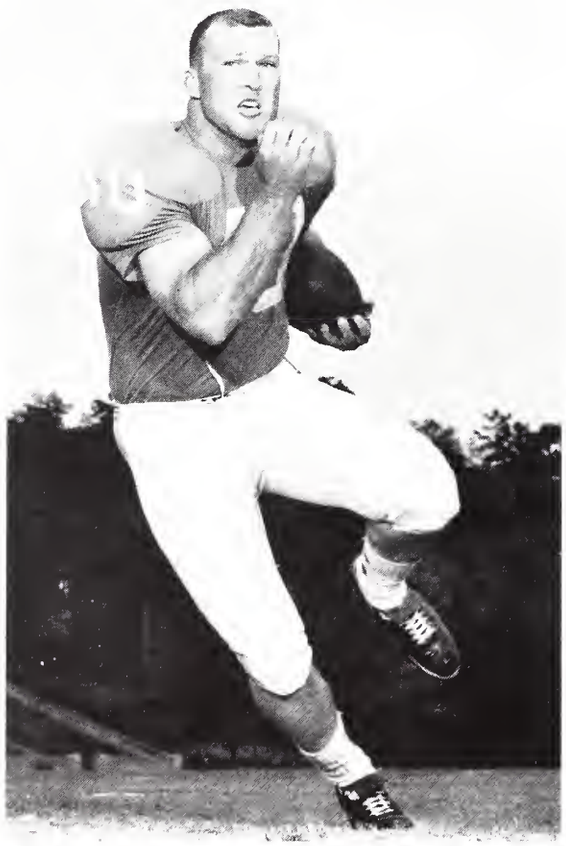
KEN POWELL: The Justice Era furnished Carolina with almost as many capable athletes as Eisenhower had troops. Many outstanding players were overlooked. Ken was one of the lucky ones, for he received a defensive end position on the 1949 All-America selections, a fine tribute since teammate Weiner was rating most of the headlines. Powell specialized in hand-to-hand combat and he was always on call for a good gridiron collision. He had spunk and abandon and a defensive recklessness that drew attention his way. Thus three UNC aces drew top billing that season. Powell lives in Charlotte.

IRVIN HOLDASH: He was known as Huck. Rival coaches paid him the kind of compliments that drew All-America attention. Gen. Bob Neyland of Tennessee said, "He's one of the greatest linebackers I ever saw." Frank Leahy of Notre Dame called him "devastating." Coach Carl Snavely constantly sang his praises. Huck's most triumphant performance was against Notre Dame in 1950. He tackled one Irish halfback in mid-air and the photo of it drew nation-wide coverage. Huck was in. Holdash makes his home in Shrewsbury, Mass.

AL GOLDSTEIN: This fellow made catches like Willie Mays. He would go unnoticed for long stretches of time, then jar the stands to attention with a phenomenal grab. Goldstein was only a junior when he made the big pick in 1958. He caught 24 passes for 490 yards. Four important receptions were against Notre Dame for 101 yards in a thriller the Tar Heels lost, 34-24. Against Maryland he took a pass for a TD, then did it the hard way by intercepting a Terp pass while on defense and roaring 46 yards into pay dirt. A knee injury slowed his career. Goldstein lives in Birmingham, Mich.



BOB LACEY: Bob rates next to Weiner as the most prolific receiver in Carolina history. He pulled in 44 as a junior for more than 600 yards, then came back as a marked man and snared 48 his senior season. Against Michigan State in 1962 and South Carolina in 1963 Lacey caught 10 passes off the arm of Junior Edge. He shares the Atlantic Coast Conference reception record (48) with one other player. His 158 yards in the Michigan State game is an ACC mark today. Lacey, who grew up in New York State, made the dream team in 1963, the Gator Bowl year. He played with the New York Giants.



KEN WILLARD: A smiling workhorse during his three-year career, Willard was an outstanding baseball player as well as a crashing halfback and once turned down a $100,000 diamond offer. The 230-pounder led the Tar Heels from 1962-65 in rushing and his play was called a plentiful 228 times in 1964, a record. Willard was the Gator Bowl's top player and later chosen the Most Valuable in the Coaches' All-America game at Buffalo, N. Y. Willard was a member of the Coaches' All-America 1965 squad and earned a COSIDA All-America certificate for ability and academics. Now with the San Francisco 49'ers, the Richmonder attends law school in off season.

A Synopsis Of Last Fall's Action

IT WAS A HOT OPENER

It was a day of heat and fireworks. Men in the press box called it the hottest football afternoon they could recall. Michigan, Rose Bowl champion, bolted away to a 21-0 lead and for a moment it looked like a route. Then Billy Darnall intercepted a Dick Vidmer pass and scampered 53 yards for a touchdown to give the Tar Heels life. Danny Talbott kicked a 31-yard field goal on the last play of the first half. In the third quarter, Talbott hit John Atherton for a touchdown pass of 12 yards, making it 21-16. Michigan surged down the field, finally settling for a field goal. It was 24-16. The back-breaker for the Tar Heels was a Vidmer pass into the end zone which bounced off one Michigan player into the arms of another for the TD. Carolina's final score came on a pass from Jeff Beaver to Max Chapman, the distance being 19 yards. The game had a bit of everything and ended at 31-24. It was a plucky comeback by the Tar Heels who were distinct underdogs.

THE WIN WAS A SHOCKER

A game to remember. The Tar Heels dominated the mighty Buckeyes from the start and unleashed a running attack that wasn't evident in the Michigan game. Some 80,000 fans watched Danny Talbott start the assault with a five-yard keep play around left end. Ohio State put a three-pointer on the board in the second quarter. The final bit of thunder came in the last quarter with Max Chapman breaking away for a 48-yard touchdown run off right tackle. Ohio State played possession ball and ran 82 plays to Carolina's 51. But when the Tar Heels had to dig in, they did. Talbott's job was smooth and drew raves from reporters. The Tar Heels, in defeating Ohio State for the first time, played their best game of the year. The game ball was given to former fullback Jimmy Vota, who sat on the bench. Vota died last spring of lukemia. Chapman gained 127 yards rushing.

BIG LEAD WENT TO POT

After 20 minutes of football fans started feeling sorry for Virginia. The Cavaliers were down, 17-0, and North Carolina had seldom looked smarter. It all goes to prove anything can happen. Long passes late in the second period gave Virginia a score and at halftime it was 17-7. The Tar Heels couldn't get going in the second half and Virginia was full of fire. In the final quarter, Tom Hodges passed Carolina dizzy in an 80-yard drive for a TD. Then came the big one. Hodges passed to John Pincavage of 57 yards and finally to Ken Poates for the touchdown in a desperation play. It was all over, 21-17. Hodges hit for 13 of 18 passes. Carolina touchdowns were by Max Chapman and Danny Talbott. The latter also had a 27-yard field goal. It was a shocked Tar Heel squad which left the stadium.

GOODBY TO RIDDICK STADIUM

Credit Danny Talbott with all the points in this spine-tingler. Making the most of third-down clutch situations, Talbott led a drive in the first quarter which culminated in a touchdown, Danny scoring on a four-yard run. Then he kicked the extra point. The Wolfpack pushed to the Carolina 13 late in the second stanza, but three straight passes failed and the threat was erased. After a scoreless third period, State came to life and began a drive which resulted in an early fourth-quarter touchdown by Shelly Mansfield on a five-yard run. The point was good and the game was deadlocked. The Tar Heels took the kickoff and with determined running by Tom Lampman and Max Chapman paraded down the field. The drive bogged but the goal was within range. Talbott kicked a 30-yard field goal with 5:51 remaining. That was it.

NIP MARYLAND'S COMEBACK TRY

Some 30,000 fans watched Carolina defeat Maryland 12-10 in another game which went down to the wire. Maryland's Bernardo Bramson, who had earlier kicked a 38-yard field goal, failed from a shorter distance in the final seconds of the game. A 22-yard pass from Quarterback Talbott to End Charlie Carr provided Carolina's first touchdown in the second quarter. Late in the third quarter Talbott engineered a 34-yard drive. He himself climaxed the game with a two-yard plunge for the touchdown that meant the victory. It was hard-fought football that found Maryland scoring all of its points in a late comeback. Little Dave Riggs averaged almost 6 yards a carry for the Tar Heels in a good running effort.

LATE PASS WAS DIFFERENCE

The Tar Heels, who had won two games by a total of 5 points, were defeated by the narrow margin of two as Wake Forest came from behind in the final quarter with a scoring pass that gave the Deacons the 12-10 upset victory. The Carolina points came on an 11-yard touchdown run by Halfback Riggs, and a Talbott field goal of 31 yards. Wake Forest pulled a bit of magic by using a second-string quarterback, Jon Wilson, and getting an excellent job from him. Wake scored two field goals in the first half and then pulled the shock of the day with a 41-yard pass from Wilson to Butch Henry for the touchdown that meant the game. Henry caught seven passes for 103 yards. Talbott missed a 31-yard attempt by about a foot in the fourth quarter.

ONE OF WILDEST EVER PLAYED

Scoring records splattered like hot popcorn in one of the wildest games ever played at historic Kenan Stadium. Twice the University of Georgia came from 14 points behind to finally defeat UNC by the basketball margin 47-35. A Homecoming Day crowd of 43,000 looked on and the 82-point total was an all-time high for any game played by a Carolina team. Individual hero was Danny Talbott. He rolled up a total of 318 offensive yards to break the all-time mark of 304 yards compiled by All-America Charlie Justice in the 1948 Georgia game. Each team made a total of more than 400 yards, with their offensive efforts. At half-time it was 21-21. Then Carolina put two big touchdowns on the board. The fantastic Bulldogs riddled Carolina's defense in the final stanza with a 26-point splurge.

WHEN A TIGER BIT THE DUST

Continuing the script of a cliff-hanger every week, the Tar Heels managed to tame the Clemson Tiger by a score of 17-13. However, the Tiger didn't die peacefully. He was on Carolina's 24-inch line when the clock ran out before 38,500 breathless spectators. Clemson's Tom Ray completed 21 of 43 passes for a monstrous 323 yards. He compiled a total of 335 yards during the game. Carolina held a 10-7 lead at half-time on a 67-yard TD run by Dave Riggs and a field goal by Talbott. Both teams scored a touchdown the final quarter with Talbott's 35-yard dash the bullet that felled the Tiger. Clemson picked up a hefty 465 yards of total offense. Halfback Jack Davenport ran back an intercepted pass for 57 yards for UNC in a key play.

1966 OUTLOOK: Possibly no other team lost so much as Kentucky did following a hectic 1965 campaign—a reported million dollars in pro talent and three All-Americans among 18 graduated lettermen—and the void is sure to be obvious to some degree this season. Yet Wildcat Chief Charlie Bradshaw isn't crying the blues. He feels confident there's a fine nucleus remaining among 20 returning lettermen and a promising freshman crop to fill the vacancies (8 offensive and five defensive starters must be replaced) and back them up. The style of attack is due to be modified somewhat to adapt it to available personnel. Likely there will be more emphasis on the running game, which had to take a back seat the past three seasons to air operations. And there have been some modifications to beef up the defensive alignment to the point where this phase could well be Kentucky's long suit in '66. Potential stars among the Kentuckians include tailback Larry Seiple, wingback Bob Windsor, quarterback Terry Beadles, center Cal Withrow and linebacker Mike McGraw.

1966 OUTLOOK: Coach Earle Edwards: "This 1966 football squad will be the most experienced and probably the best balanced team we've had in my 13 seasons at North Carolina State. But there are three areas that give us some concern: 1. Our defensive secondary losses were heavy with all-ACC Tony Golmont and Larry Brown missing and our co-captain Bill James's status is uncertain due to an operation; 2. We must replace Charlie Bradburn at offensive center with sophomores and 3. Improve our overall kicking game in protection and coverage. We'll have a senior backfield in Charlie Noggle (QB), Gary Rowe (WB), Don DeArment (H), and Bill Wyland (FB), and seniors John Stec (G) and Bill Gentry (E) head up our offensive line. Pete Sokalsky (DE) and Dennis Byrd (DT) are outstanding at their positions and lead our defensive unit."

1965 CONFERENCE RECORD: Won 2, lost 5, tied 0.
1965 OVERALL RECORD: Won 4, lost 6, tied 0.
1966 OUTLOOK: Quarterback is most serious problem although Wolverines must replace such top starters as Tom Mack, Bill Yearby, Charlie Kines at the tackles; Tom Cecchini, linebacker; Wally Gabler, quarterback, all of whom have graduated. On the brighter side, the starting backfield returns with exception of quarterback. and backfield reserves are plentiful. Offensive center and ends look strong. Defensively, the Wolverines should have fine linebacking strength with Frank Nunley, Dennis Morgan, Barry Dehlin, Paul D'Eramo, all back. Dick Williamson, a graduate of last year's reserve squad, should bolster an otherwise average tackle situation. Experienced guards are available in Don Bailey and Hank Hanna on offense. Bob Mielke and Kenny Wright, strong defensive guards, may be moved over to bolster the defensive tackle spots. If quarterback Dick Vidmer and newcomer John Thomas can handle that spot, the Wolverines could be tough.

1965 OVERALL RECORD: Won 7, lost 2, tied 1.

1966 OUTLOOK: Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian feels he has a sizeable rebuilding job on offense where he must replace seven departed seniors. Defensively the picture is a little brighter although the entire defensive secondary will be manned by inexperienced performers. "In the process of rebuilding our offense we will be continually striving for more balance than we had in 1965," Parseghian says. "But better balance will depend a great deal on the quarterback position, on our young receivers, and on how well our sophomores blend with our veterans. We will be rather young offensively but hopefully more diversified than last season."

1965 CONFERENCE RECORD: Won 1, lost 5, tied 0.

1965 OVERALL RECORD: Won 3, lost 7, tied 0.

1966 OUTLOOK: All indications point to a much-improved Wake Forest team for the 1966 season. There appears to be more individual size, better depth and strength at nearly every position and better overall speed. The rising group of sophomores is one of the best the Deacs have had in quite some time. Jon Wilson is the lone experienced quarterback, but he'll get strong competition from sophs Ed Atkinson, Phil Cheatwood, Ken Erickson and Jimmy Arrington. Andy Heck, last year's starting fullback, and newcomer Jimmy Johnson will provide a good running attack. The forward wall should be better both offensively and defensively, and Coach Bill Tate figures a first division finish in the ACC is a realistic goal.

1965 CONFERENCE RECORD: Won 3, lost 3, tied 0.

1965 OVERALL RECORD: Won 6, lost 4, tied 0.

1965 OUTLOOK: Georgia's prospects are good for 1966. The big task on offense is to find a capable TQB substitute for Kirby Moore (regular Preston Ridlehuber graduated). Also it will be tough to replace all-SEC offensive end Pat Hodgson, and the middle of the offensive line: center Ken Davis, guards Jimmy Denney and Harold Steely. The big job on defense will be to replace star defensive halfbacks Joe Burson and Doug McFalls. Two all-SEC selections and pre-season All-America picks, defensive tackle George Patton and safetyman-TQB Lynn Hughes, lead the returnees. Patton made two all-America first teams in 1965.

1965 CONFERENCE RECORD: Won 4, lost 3, tied 0.

1965 OVERALL RECORD: Won 5, lost 5, tied 0.

1966 OUTLOOK: Clemson's speed this fall will be the most noticeable change in the Tigers. Coach Frank Howard hasn't had a true breakaway runner since the days of Joel Wells a decade ago. But in tailback Buddy Gore and flanker Phil Rogers, the Tigers have a pair that should keep 'em honest up the middle. Rogers, while leading in pass receiving last year as a sophomore, will be utilized more as a runner this fall. Gore is the kind that could go all the way anytime he handles the ball. The offensive line has more speed which should help these runners get that extra step needed so many times. Tackle Wayne Mass already has pro scouts looking his way. The defense has seven of the starters returning, spearheaded by end Butch Sursavage, an All-ACC selectee as a sophomore. Howard has sugar plum visions as his 27th season approaches.

1965 OVERALL RECORD: Won 3, lost 6, tied 1.

1966 OUTLOOK: A strong Air Force defensive unit which returns all eleven of the 1965 starters will bolster the Air Force hopes this season, along with an outstanding kicking game. These two factors promise to keep the Falcons in all ball games which leaves things up to the offense which is somewhat of a question mark following the loss of three of the four starting backs, including Paul Stein, who established seven new Academy records last fall. Neal Starkey, a 187-pound junior, should be one of college football's top defensive backs and will be a strong All-America candidate in 1966. If the offense rounds into shape, mainly on the strong right arm of QB Sonny Litz, who has six of the top eight receivers back, the Falcons could be a good team in 1966.

1965 OVERALL RECORD: Won 6, lost 4, tied 0.
1966 OUTLOOK: The second straight season of "two platoon" football at Duke will find veterans returning at almost every key position except in the offensive line. Most of the players were trained during spring practice to be skilled on both offense and defense before specializing in one category. Linebacker Bob Matheson, who may see some duty at tight end, and defensive halfback Andy Beath, who will also be used at split end, are being groomed as two-way performers. Offensively, there are several eager newcomers in the line and much will depend on the pass catching of split ends Dave Dunaway and Andy Beath and the power running of fullbacks Jay Calabrese and Page Wilson and wingback Jake Devonshire. Defensively, the name of All-ACC linebacker Bob Matheson tops all the rest. Everywhere you look—in the coaching staff, in the new offensive formations, in the new uniforms and even in the Blue Devil gridders themselves—it will be a "new look" in Duke football.

1965 OVERALL RECORD: Won 4, lost 6, tied 0.
1966 OUTLOOK: A decided lack of depth at most positions makes the outlook somewhat clouded. Quarterback appears to be a solid position with returning Bob Davis the incumbent. Ken Poates moves from split end to wingback and is the only letterman at offensive halfback. Carroll Jarvis returns at fullback with two good seasons under his belt. The tailback position is in the hands of Frank Quayle. The offensive line will have only three lettermen as starters. Ed Carrington is one of the nation's best tight ends and Jeff Anderson, a soph, is the split end. Jim Copeland and John Naponick are the tackles. Bob Buchanan and Mike Jarvis are the guards while soph David McWilliams and letterman Fred Jones hold forth at center. The defensive line has more experience and is anchored at end by another all-star candidate Don Parker. Paul Yewisiak is a returning letterman at the other end. Tackles are veteran Randall Harris and 1965's middle guard Tony Popeck. Rick Constantine, a quick-striking soph, is the middle guard. Junior letterman Mal MacGregor and sophs Chuck Hammer and Bob Paczkoski are fighting it out for the two linebacking spots. The word here is more speed.

Speaking Of Records: Talbott Ran, Passed To Kayo Choo Choo; His 5 Field Goals A New Mark

Records are meant to be broken. One man, Danny Talbott, had his hands and feet in a passel during the past season.

By throwing 217 passes, Talbott clipped the old mark of 185 set by Junior Edge in 1963. Danny hit on 103, for a percentage of .475. The 103 completions tied Edge's earlier mark of 1963.

Talbott's sensational afternoon of running and passing against the University of Georgia on Oct. 30, 1965, erased a Charlie Justice mark which had held since 1948 when Choo Choo cavorted for a total offense of 304 yards. Talbott ran and passed for a grand total of 318 against the Bulldogs.

Five field goals by Talbott was a new one for the book. The old record was three, held jointly by Bob Elliott (1961), George Sparrow (1925), Runt Lowe (1921) and George Tandy (1915).

Press and Radio

Stations in three states will carry Carolina football during the season. The Tar Heel Football Network is one of the largest in the country.

Bill Currie, sports director at WSOC-TV in Charlotte, will handle the play-by-play once again. Jack Callahan of that station will voice the pre-game show and color at half-time.

The campus television station, WUNC-TV, under the direction of John Young, will cover home contests and offer viewers a playback on Sunday nights. This has been a popular feature for several years.

Each week during the season a press luncheon will feature Coach Hickey and members of his staff for questions and answers. During this time as many as 10 radio and television tapes are made for distribution around the state. As many as 40 reporters and announcers have attended UNC press conferences.

In early September the Tar Heels squad and coaching staff welcomes a touring group of newsmen from an excursion known as "Operation Football." About 25 reporters plane and bus to all Atlantic Coast Conference campuses for a seasonal preview.

Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be secured by contacting the Office of Sports Information. Requests are screened with great care to assure a working press box. Children, wives and pets are not admitted in complying with the working code of the Football Writers of America.

Experience, Ability Make Lacey A Valuable Asset

One of the most able trainers in college football today is John Lacey, who begins his 11th season at Chapel Hill. He is an astute diagnostician and players and coaches alike highly respect his judgement.

In 1964, Lacey, who trained three National Champion teams, gained an even greater thrill by serving as trainer for the U. S. Olympic basketball team, champion of the Tokyo Olympics.

John was introduced to Carolina sports teams by the late Jim Tatum, who worked closely with Lacey at Maryland. While at Maryland, John watched the football and lacrosse teams win national crowns. At Carolina he helped guide the 1957 basketball team to a similar honor.

Lacey's background is an impressive one. He was once employed by three professional football teams—the Chicago Rockets, the New York Yankees and the Baltimore Colts. Before becoming head trainer at Maryland, Lacey was a trainer at Yale University.

John attended high school at his hometown Wallingford, Conn., and prepped at Tilton Academy in New Hampshire. During World War II he had his first training experience at Camp Robinson Base Hospital, Little Rock, Ark. He studied at the Eastern School in New York under Dr. S. E. Bilik and the Junior College of Therapy at New Haven. He was also a student in the Yale University Department of Health.

Lacey's various training rooms on campus are surgically neat. When on road trips, John huddles with the hotel chef and plans all meals for the athletes. He is married to the former Barbara Koch of Wallingford.

Morris Mason—He Came With The Stadium

Morris Mason

On Sept. 1, 1927 Morris Mason entered new Kenan Fieldhouse and took over as custodian. Since then he has outfitted every football player to wear Carolina colors. He has served under eight coaches.

Morris knows Tar Heel football as few men do. He estimates the 1929 and 1948 squads were perhaps the best in his recollection. Records were 9-1 and 9-1-1. Morris has one ambition: to suit out an unbeaten club.

At home, Morris Alexander Mason sees that all equipment is in first class shape. He has devised special bins and shelves to speed operations and there is seldom a line awaiting daily issue.

"If I had to," notes Morris, "I could suit up 200 players with a few hours notice."

On the road, Morris has the important job of packing and accounting for all uniforms and game-day essentials.

Morris has an uncanny knack for remembering names and faces. He quickly recognizes any oldtimer who happens to drop by his area. When former players gather, they usually call upon Morris for a speech and he never lets them down. His oratory is a special talent—almost as much in demand as his equipment.

FOUNDED: The University was officially chartered as a State University in 1789, with doors opening in 1795.

ENROLLMENT: About 13,000.

NICKNAME: Tar Heels. Adopted because North Carolinians as natives are known as Tar Heels. The nickname is said to have been applied to the area's residents as long ago as the Revolutionary War. Tar and turpentine were in abundance in the State at that time. Legend has it that (1) North Carolina warriors in the Revolution were noted for their resistance, that is, they had tar on their heels, and (2) British generals noticed barefooted natives with tar on their heels and first applied the soubriquet.

COLORS: Carolina Blue and White.

MASCOT: A ram.

SYMBOL: The Victory Bell, awarded annually to winner of Carolina-Duke game. Duke is Carolina's traditional rival.

STADIUM: Kenan Memorial.

BAND: 125-member Marching Tar Heels, directed by Captain John Yesulaitis.

Tar Heels Pace ACC

By virtue of the Tar Heels' 12-2 record in the spring hardball wars, UNC took over the conference lead for winning percentage compiled in the "major sports" category.

The Chapel Hill institution owned a .650 winning percentage prior to this season's diamond campaign. Duke's percentage of .662 topped the chart.

After the season final ACC contest, a position swap was realized.

The combined football, basketball and baseball records of North Carolina boasts a .657 winning percentage. Duke, which posted a 4-9 baseball mark, dropped into second place at .651.

Following are the "major sports" standings of the ACC members for the league's 13-year history:

	Football	Basketball	Baseball	Totals
	W-L-T	W-L	W-L	W-L-T	Pct.
North Carolina	46-35-1	125-54	119-62	290-151-1	.657

The Assistant AD Stays On The Move

Scheduling games for all sports, coaching a championship baseball team, supervising the recreation area at Kerr Lake for the University, teaching in the Department of Physical Education and serving as aide-de-camp to the athletic director are just a few of Walter Rabb's duties.

Rabb, whose official title is Assistant Athletic Director, is one of UNC's most respected teachers and coaches. His Tar Heel baseball team, Atlantic Coast Conference champions in 1966, ranked 4th nationally.

Three times within the past seven ACC seasons Rabb-coached teams have won the league diamond crown. He has taken his chattels to Omaha for the College World Series twice.

Although he is a graduate of N. C. State, Rabb is a fully baptised Chapel Hillian. He succeeded the famed Bunn Hearn as baseball coach at UNC after assisting "Big Steam" for years. He is a past president of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches.

An outdoorsman and an ex-professional player, Rabb is married to the former Amy Warren of Snow Hill. They have a daughter and a son. The latter recently graduated from college. During football season Rabb is constantly busy with details of his office pertaining to the sport.

–ERICKSON–

Fetzer Field, named after Chuck's predecessor, is a superb track facility. During the fall, it accommodates the soccer team. Finley Golf Course is an 18-hole championship layout. In the future, Erickson sees the need for another 18 holes. Adjoining land belongs to his department.

Chuck is an asset to the University because of his intimate knowledge of the nation's athletic scene. As a Lt. Commander in the Navy, he helped set up many of the nation's pre-flight schools during World War II. As a result, he worked closely with many men who now serve in top athletic posts from coast to coast.

When Erickson relaxes from his complex duties, he usually heads for the golf course. He was a successful instructor (Harvie Ward was a pupil) and he can still turn up a card in the 70's on a hot day. One of his links partners is the former Mildred Wanell, who today is Mrs. Erickson. When Chuck and Mildred aren't talking about the sports program at UNC, they usually drift to the latest escapades of their grandson, presented by daughter Susan only last spring.

–SYNOPSIS–

A TERRIFIC THREE QUARTERS

Notre Dame defeated the Tar Heels, 17-0, but it was anybody's game until the final quarter. Both teams had scoring opportunities in the first half and missed. It was a contest of jarring tackles and fumbles at inopportune times. Carolina and the Irish retired at halftime with a scoreless deadlock. With fourth and six on the Carolina 22, the Notre Damers went for a field goal and made it. That primed other activities. Halfback Nick Eddy slipped away for a 66-yard run around his own right end for a TD shortly thereafter. Eddy scored another on a short run with three minutes remaining in the game. It was the 13th meeting between the two schools and a cheering throng of more than 59,000, capacity, watched in good weather. Tom Lampman's 64 yards rushing topped Carolina's offense.

AN UNHAPPY SEASON'S ENDING

North Carolina led, 7-6, early in the game, but the advantage was short lived. For the first time in six years the game was decided by more than a six-point margin as the Blue Devils stoked the fire to a 34-7 blaze. The big explosion came in the second quarter. Duke took advantage of Carolina mistakes and its own power to score three touchdowns in six minutes. Danny Talbott scored the lone Carolina TD in the first quarter, but missed more than half of the game with an eye injury. Jay Calabrese scored three of Duke's five touchdowns. Reporters were given a double helping of news as a press conference was held immediately after the game and Coach Bill Murray of the winners announced his resignation. In 15 years against Carolina teams Murray was 10-5. Against Jim Hickey products he was 3-4.

1965 IN REVIEW

PASSING—Carolina ranked fourth in the Conference with an average of 127.8 per game. Danny Talbott connected on 103 of 217 attempts for 1,080 yards and three touchdowns. He thus accounted for all but 198 of the Tar Heels' total passing yards.

RUSHING—Third behind Duke and Clemson. UNC finished with 1,545 yards, an average of 154.5 a game. Tom Lampman was the Tar Heel individual leader, barely edging out Max Chapman, 444 to 415. Talbott accounted for 397 yards and had only 96 rushing tries. His average was 4.1.

TOTAL OFFENSE—Third in the ACC behind Duke and Virginia. UNC averaged 282.3 yards a game, clearly showing the fine offensive balance the team had. Biggest day came in wild game against Georgia when UNC picked up 448 yards. Talbott set a new school individual game record with 318 yards.

TOTAL DEFENSE—This was the big trouble spot as the Tar Heels dropped to last place in the ACC. The team yielded an average of 332.8 a game or 4.6 yards per play. Strangely, UNC had been first only the year before.

RUSHING DEFENSE—UNC rated fifth in the ACC giving up 168.3 yards a game.

PASSING DEFENSE—Last in the ACC with a yield of 164.5 yards a game.

PASS RECEIVING—Bob Hume ranked sixth and John Atherton seventh in the ACC. Hume caught 30 for 266 yards while Atherton hauled in 29 for 433. Atherton averaged 14.6 yards a reception.

PUNTING—Bill Edwards of Ayden averaged 39.1 a boot to rate third behind Rod Stewart of Duke and John Barfield of Clemson.

EXTRA POINT KICKING—Danny Talbott clicked 13 out of 14 times, missing only against Maryland after an offside penalty had nullified a successful conversion. Danny rated third in ACC.

INDIVIDUAL TOTAL OFFENSE—Talbott was the champion with 1,477 yards, an average of 4.9 a play. Danny figured in 303 Tar Heel plays. He passed 207 times and ran 96.

–DANNY TALBOTT–

One of Danny's most poised performances was against Ohio State as he called a flawless game in a 14-3 upset. He won the North Carolina State game with a field goal and touchdown, 10-7. His sensational play nipped Maryland 12-10. A daring 35-yard keeper for a touchdown and a field goal by Danny was the difference in a 17-13 triumph over Clemson. Noted gritty Frank Howard, coach of the losers: "Talbott's a great one."

When the year reached a conclusion, the 21-year-old Talbott had rushed for a net of 397 yards and had passed for a smart 1,084. The combined total of 1,481 yards for 10 games was tops in the eight-school ACC. His 70 points (7 TD, 13 XP, 5 FG) led the Conference and was two shy of a UNC record.

Talbott is a history major and has the distinction of a street being named after him following his exploits in Rocky Mount as a prepster. He takes his success in stride. He'll chat with fans for an hour after game time, forgetting to reach the showers before the hot water runs out.

"I would like to have a shot at either pro football or pro baseball after I graduate," said Danny. "I debated about pro baseball right after high school. But education is more important."

Talbott batted .362 as a sophomore and soared to a spectacular .395 as a junior. As a high schooler and freshman, he had three straight years of hitting .400 or better. The Sporting News named him to its All-America team for 1966 as a first baseman. The Baseball Coaches of America had tapped him for a second string berth.

Other honors for Danny during the past school year were the "Jim Tatum Award," a trophy presented to the UNC player possessing the athletic attributes most admired by the late coach, and the "Athlete of the Year" award, according to a vote by Atlantic Coast sportswriters.

"Talbott is all athlete, the pressure player all coaches admire," praises Coach Jim Hickey. "He's cool and he can make the big play a routine matter. He's one of the most able third-down players in football today."

Such is the background on our cover boy, Danny Talbott. With a little luck he will rate headlines as one of America's great players for 1966. It's quite evident the talent and desire are already there.

The All-Southern List

The Carmichael Cup, based upon excellence in all sports during a school year, has been awarded to the University of North Carolina for the second time in three years, according to James Weaver, Commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Tar Heels recorded 75 points in Cup standings as compared to runner-up Maryland's 72½. The Cup is a memorial to the late W. D. Carmichael Jr., of Chapel Hill. Each sport counts equally in tabulating points.

OUR DEAN OF BASKETBALL HAS A BRIGHT FUTURE

Two players of All-America caliber, Bob Lewis and Larry Miller, plus a squad that finally offers some height makes the 1966-67 edition of the basketball Tar Heels one worthy of notice.

Coach Dean Smith, who begins his fifth season here, frankly admits he has no inkling of what the starting lineup may be. Explains Dean: "It's a good feeling. Most of the positions will be up for grabs. Lewis and Miller you can count on. From there it should be a scramble."

Rusty Clark (6-11), Bill Bunting (6-8) and Dickie Grubar (6-4) are sophomores who mean business. A senior who started last season is 6-5 Tom Gauntlett. Beefy Mark Miken, hustling Ralph Fletcher and a pair of capable guards, Donnie Moe and Greg Campbell, are in the upper echelon.

The schedule is demanding, but at last the Tar Heels have board strength. Miller gets relief with Bunting and Clark. It appears as if the opposition will have to play more honest with Lewis and throw fewer double teams his way. Defense should improve over last year and the offense is apparent. It could be a very big year.
